OBJECTIVES

As an impact of the current pandemic, classroom training seems to have taken a back seat, necessitating shift on to Digital Platforms. We have, therefore, in right earnest, developed Webinars, Flagship Programs and Web series to plug the suddenly widening gap of academic activities, arising out of the need for social distancing and travel embargo. For the officials working in IB domain of the banks we have specifically designed a web series on FEMA GUIDELINES to enable them to have theoretical and practical grounding on the subject.

This Web series will be focusing on conceptual sessions along with interactive case studies which gives participants a real work like environment for in-depth learning

Program usefulness

The Programme will be very helpful for bank executives who are working in International Banking Department at B-Category branches, branches dealing with Forex transaction, trade processing cells as well as officials dealing with FOREX at controlling office. The Programme is also useful for exporters and importers, as it covers

- Foreign Trade Policy
- FEMA Guidelines on Export and Import

BACKGROUND

Knowledge of International banking supplements expertise in credit domain. Uniquely, unlike other areas of banking, International Banking is externally driven and rule based. So operating officials need a good clear grounding on rules of the game emanating from multiple agencies, both domestic and international. It is important for Authorised Dealers to appreciate the multiple sets of rules, their interplay and issues arising during their implementation in day to day working. The program design and content delivery aim to bridge the gaps and smoothen the rough edges and make the participants feel more comfortable and face the challenges with confidence. The pedagogy adopted will give equal emphasis to theories, underlying rules and practical applications through live cases and caselets, situation analysis. We invite you to an enriching learning experience.
